

Money always talks when it comes to Washington and the politicians are payed off and bought liked what's going on with gasoline prices but that's business as usual. So why should the radio industry be any different?